

Vaginal Breech Birth

Weekend-long breech skills workshop, simulation training, and upright breech technique

July 15-17, Indianapolis IN

Dr. J. Peter O'Neill is an Assistant Professor of OB/GYN at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario. He is an ALARM Instructor and has served as chair of the ALARM Committee at the SOGC (Society of Obstetricians and Gynecologists of Canada). Having worked in primary, secondary and tertiary centers, he has an understanding of the different venues for birth and enjoys teaching all practitioners how to care for women in labor and achieve optimal outcomes for mothers and babies.

Betty-Anne Daviss is a midwife of over 30 years, a researcher, and a professor in Women's and Gender Studies at Carleton University. She has attended breech births in both home and hospital settings. She has trained extensively in upright (hands & knees) breech technique with Dr. Frank Louwen of Frankfurt, Germany. His clinic has done over 1,000 breech births in the past decade, most of which were upright births. She recently returned from Frankfurt, where she has attended over 40 upright breech births.

Friday July 15th, 7—9 pm: "Vaginal Breech Tips & Techniques." Discussion panel and Q&A Saturday July 16th, 8 am—5 pm: Breech Simulation Training with Dr. J. Peter O'Neill. Based on the ALARM program (Advances in Labor and Risk Management) of Canada. Each participant will perform a simulated breech delivery and observe several others.

7—9 pm: "Upright Breech Birth: What We Can Learn From Germany." Lecture by Betty-Anne Daviss (Free & open to the public)

Sunday, July 17th, 8 am—5 pm: Upright Breech Workshop with Betty-Anne Daviss.
